Australian actors promoting home talent

A powerful coalition of Australians including Nicole Kidman, Mel Gibson, Russell Crowe and Naomi Watts are helping promote homegrown films and help new Aussie talent in Hollywood.

The 34 actors and directors have signed up to be ambassadors of the Los Angeles-based non-profit organisation Australians in Film.

The group holds regular screenings in Los Angeles of Australian-made movies and those involving Australian actors, directors and crew.

Geoffrey Rush, Cate Blanchett, Hugh Jackman, Heath Ledger, are also amongst those who have signed up to be ambassadors.

Formerly known as the Los Angeles Australian Film and Television Association (LAAFTA), the organisation was revamped and renamed earlier this year.
